MY STORY

After completing a Master's in International Commercial and Business Law; a challenging though rewarding experience, I found myself uncertain like so many others before me as to what to do with my life and which path to forge for myself. Before starting at Bloomsbury Wealth my only other work experience included working in a coffee shop to help save up and fund my master's course; the experience was valuable, though the irony is that I do not drink coffee!

When I was younger my parents both took career breaks and together we spent time travelling around Australia; they home schooled me on our six-month travels, and the experience has been the best I have ever had. It taught me the value of experiencing as much as you can of the world and enjoying every minute, having a positive outlook, and not being afraid to try something new; all valuable education, and not necessarily that which you learn in a classroom. After returning from our travels, I quickly had to adjust to school life once more; perseverance and positivity saw me through this and has served me well through my time at University and beyond.

Since starting at Bloomsbury Wealth I have found the transition enjoyable; where once I was very nervous, I was instantly put at ease and encouraged to ask as many questions as possible. I did not have to be asked twice; I am supported and encouraged to continuously keep trying as I grow into the role, which is what I intend to do as I go forward.
